

WILL ACCEPT MAIN POINTS AGREED UPON

PRESIDENT WILSON AND SECRETARY BAKER APPROVE SET- TLEMENT REACHED WITH OREGON.

OREGON IS SATISFIED

Sees No Reason Why Terms Reached at Conference Should Not Be Ac- ceptable Both to Mexico and United States.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, May 4.—The American government is ready to accept in its main points the agreement for the future pursuit of Villa and his bandits, drawn up by General Obregon and General Scott. "This was decided upon at a conference today between President Wilson and Secretary Baker."

President's Verdict Later.

After a conference with President Wilson, Secretary Baker said that no announcement on General Scott's report was ready, but that the president might issue a statement later. He indicated a final decision on all points had not been reached, but General Scott would be informed so he might have another conference with General Obregon.

When Major General Scott's report on his meeting with General Obregon, Secretary Baker said that the president might issue a statement later. He indicated a final decision on all points had not been reached, but General Scott would be informed so he might have another conference with General Obregon.

Acceptable to Carranza.

El Paso, May 4.—Ratification of a tentative agreement reached between Major General Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff of the United States army, and General Alvaro Obregon, minister of war of the defunct government of Mexico, awaited only today the acceptance by President Wilson of terms of a proposed settlement. Advice received in Mexico indicated that Carranza had given consent to the terms agreed upon by his minister of war.

General Obregon told his hearers that he had no reason why the settlement should not be generally approved and he believed the tension between Mexicans and Americans would quickly disappear when news of the settlement was made public. He reached that had for its object the retirement of American soldiers from Mexican soil.

Obregon Gratified.

General Obregon was gratified over the report that large mining companies were planning to operate their properties and put people back to work.

Generals Scott and Funtun, the American conferees, waited during the day for word from Washington that they might request a formal conference with General Obregon and his assistants.

MAKE NO EXCEPTION IN ENFORCING LAW

Pea Canning Industry Must Obey 55-Hour Law for Women Workers to the Letter, Rosenberg's Opinion.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., May 4.—All possibility of relief for the great pea canning industry of Wisconsin went aglimmering under Justice Rosenberg's supreme court decision in the case of the State vs. The Lange Canning company. The importance of the decision was not appreciated until yesterday, when the industrial commission representatives proceeded to interpret the words of the court. For years, under the 1913 legislation, the peculiar necessities of the business, the canners having convinced the members that ripe peas could not be canned immediately or the peas would become a money loss. Under Judge Rosenberg's opinion the commission cannot grant these special concessions this year, and the peas will be forced to wait until the next season's crop. The industrial commission, of course, must enforce the strict letter of the law, which will mean prosecutions and heavy penalties if the law is violated.

Another result of the opinion is that Wisconsin hereafter will have practically a straight ten-hour day for women, with a fifty-five limit for the week. This is expected to result not in a resumption of night trading in the canneries, but may also result in a revival of the long day during the Christmas season.

ANTI-WAR LETTERS BY THE THOUSANDS FOLLOW TELEGRAMS

Congressmen at Washington Swamped By Printed Protests—Husting Blames Embargo Conference.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, May 4.—Printed form letters protesting against any step which might lead to war with Germany began pouring in by the thousands today upon members of congress as a sequel to the telegram propaganda which swamped the capital and telegraph companies last week.

Blames Embargo Conference.

Senator Hustling of Wisconsin, who attacked the embargo conference and conferred with President Wilson to find if there was not some way by which the department of justice could uncover its source, received letters today which he said added evidence to his charge that the American embargo conference was behind the movement, and had declared the purpose of making "drastic efforts to prevent at least a severance of diplomatic relations."

Even the names of the congressmen were printed on envelopes and everything gave evidence the letters had been sent by the thousands and required only written signatures.

Thomas Nelson Page Confers With President and States There is Little Possibility of An Immediate Peace.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, May 4.—Secretary Lansing announced today that a dispatch from Ambassador Gerard dated yesterday said the ambassador expected to receive today the German reply to the American note demanding immediate abandonment of the present practices of submarine warfare.

Lacks Information.

Secretary Lansing said he was without any information whatsoever of the conference Gerard had with Emperor William at general headquarters. The dispatch, Lansing said, was very brief and contained no indication of the tenor of the German reply. News dispatches from Berlin have indicated the German government hoped it would be received favorably.

Chairman Stone of the foreign relations committee called on Secretary Lansing and briefly discussed the German and Mexican situations.

"Judging from the newspapers, the tenor of the situation with Germany is very much less than it was," said Senator Stone. "It also appears that they have reached some agreement on the border."

Senator Stone said there was no occasion for congressional action as the situation now stands.

LORIMER ACQUITTED OF PLOT TO WRECK HIS CHICAGO BANK

Jury Absolves Him of All Blame for La Salle Street Bank Failure, After Six Hours' Parley.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Chicago, Ill., May 4.—William Lorimer, former United States senator, on trial on charges of conspiracy in connection with the failure of the La Salle Street Trust and Savings Bank, was found not guilty in a verdict returned by the jury shortly after midnight.

The jury was out a little more than six hours.

The jury in its verdict held that Lorimer had no part in the violation of the banking laws in connection with the failure of the La Salle Street bank or in any violation of the criminal laws in the bank's failure and that he had no knowledge of such violation.

Freud on Both Charges.

The verdict was the same on both the charge of conspiracy to defraud and that of embezzlement, the judge having instructed the jury that a separate indictment for each charge would have to be returned.

On October 22, 1914, just two years and a day after the La Salle Street bank was converted from a national to a state institution, William Lorimer, C. B. Munday, E. W. Hutton and a number of officers and employees of the parent bank and its subsidiaries were indicted by the Cook county grand jury, three separate indictments being returned against Lorimer, Munday and Hutton.

Two of the indictments charged them with embezzlement for receiving deposits after the bank was insolvent; the third indictment charged them with conspiracy to defraud the public, the La Salle Street bank, the Rose Hill Cemetery association and eleven smaller banks by false pretenses and by the operation of a confidence game. Each defendant moved for a separate trial, but was overruled.

Munday was granted a change of venue. Munday was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary.

COUNCIL RECEIVES REPORTS FOR APRIL

Reports for the month of April were filed with City Clerk J. P. Hammarlund to be submitted to the council at their next regular meeting. The report of Dr. S. Buckmaster, city health officer, showed that this city was in great danger of a dangerous epidemic of contagious disease, which is now well checked, due to the clean-up activities of the health department.

At the beginning of April there were many cases of measles and thirty-two cases of diphtheria. One case was up for diphtheria and more than a dozen for scarlet fever, and one for small pox. This is the most contagious disease that this city has had in several years.

At the end of the month all the diphtheria cases were dismissed, also the small pox cases were eradicated, and there are now but five cases of measles recorded. The health department measures should be taken until all the disease is stamped out and citizens should be very careful to prevent an epidemic.

During April there were eleven marriages, twenty-two deaths, twenty-three births. One hundred rooms were fumigated, showing the large amount of work required of the health officer.

The report of the board of education showed that the April appropriation was $6,747.77. The teachers' payroll amounted to $5,437.77 and the other salary list, $1,008.31. The report of G. Slightman, plumbing inspector, showed that 47 permits were issued, and 15 inspections made, and $100 collected in fees.

EX-ENVOY TO DOMINGO IN IRISH PLOTS

JAMES M. SULLIVAN ARRESTED AT DUBLIN FOR COMPLICITY IN RECENT REBELLION.

WAS ASKED TO RESIGN

Was Bryan Appointee to Island Republic Where Charges of Indiscretion Brought About His Retirement.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, May 4.—James M. Sullivan of New York, former American minister to Santo Domingo, has been arrested in Dublin on a charge of complicity in the Irish rebellion.

Forced to Resign.

Washington, May 4.—James M. Sullivan's career, as American minister to the Dominican republic was brief and sensational and ended in his resignation under charges of indiscretion which nullified his mission.

The charge concerned his alleged participation in contracts on the island, but no evidence was found he had profited. Sullivan has been a lawyer for some time, and was one of the gamblers in the Rosenthal murder case.

Bryan Appointee.

His appointment as minister was credited to former Secretary of State W. J. Bryan, who in looking for a place for him, wrote Receiver General Victor to the Dominican republic, asking, "What positions have you at your disposal with which to reward deserving democrats?"

Secretary Tumulty disclaimed responsibility for Sullivan's appointment, and told the investigating committee he acted as a medium of transmitting Sullivan's endorsement.

Once Cleared.

Sullivan was exonerated once by Secretary Bryan, but charges against him were knocked down and a second investigation resulted in his resignation. When he left office, Sullivan said he was going to Ireland for a vacation, and that he had been arrested and held in his case for months, forgot him. The news of his arrest for alleged complicity in the Dublin uprising, was the first news of him since he left the diplomatic service.

Former Governor Port of New Jersey, who conducted the first investigation, declared Sullivan was "a big-hearted, good-natured, honest Irishman."

Some of Sullivan's characteristics excited a good deal of attention in the capital while he was here waiting for his appointment.

Adding this to $19,902.59 previously earned, gives the city a total surplus to date of $39,314.87, which will be applied to the fund for erecting the filtration plant, now in course of construction, and which will cost about $150,000.

FIND DEAD INFANT WRAPPED IN PAPER BY GUILTY PARENTS

Gruesome Discovery Made at Vollbrecht Residence on South Main Street This Morning.

Wrapped in three newspapers, one of which was of a May first issue, the nude body of a baby girl, estimated to be about a year old, was found this morning, secreted in the outhouse in the rear of the residence of Henry and Albert Vollbrecht, 739 South Main street. From the report made by two physicians who examined the badly decomposed body, the baby was allowed to die from neglect, if not killed, and then hidden, making the crime a homicide in the eyes of the law.

The police department received a telephone message from Henry Vollbrecht early this morning. One of the women at the home discovered the newspaper bundle and when it was taken from its resting place and unwrapped, the horrible discovery was made. Desk officer W. E. Gower and Coroner D. Frank Ryan went to the home and the little body removed to the undertaker's home.

In the opinion of Drs. Charles Sutherland and F. W. Van Kirk the babe had been dead at least a week. The fact that the baby had lived was demonstrated by the fact that there was air in the lungs. Physical features showed that death was due to neglect, if not to murder.

It is the belief of the physicians that the child died a few days ago, but was not hidden at that time. Police say that the Vollbrecht family positively knew that the baby had not been hidden last night. Despite the fact that there were several vacant lots in this neighborhood no attempt was made to bury the infant corpse.

An inquest will be held tomorrow morning at a o'clock at a public inquest room. An investigation is being made by the authorities who hope to place the blame for the crime.

RECEIVE A PETITION FOR CONCRETE PAVING

Block of Concrete Will Be Laid on Clarence Street, Between Court and Milwaukee Avenues.

Janesville is to have a concrete pavement. The new type of paving is to be laid last of next street, between Milwaukee avenue and Court street, a distance of one block. This morning a petition was filed by the owners of the property on this street for such a pavement to be laid on the street, with the laying of the proper underground work of sewers, gas and water connections.

For over two years concrete has been considered the logical pavement to be laid in this city. The sand gravel that is used for concrete pavements and roads in all parts of the country is purchased in Janesville. The saving of shipping costs for this important material alone would be a material saving in the contract price. As concrete is a new paving to many people, the property owners have the right to feel that it is a new and valuable. While the paving to be put in is only for a block, which is a long one, it will tend to show what concrete pavement of the modern type is like and its merits.

BENTLY IS IN JAIL ON BELOIT CHARGE

Was Convicted Here in 1912 for Forgery, the Same Offense as He is Now Charged.

According to records Bently was convicted here in 1912 on a charge of forgery. Bently said that inquiry by means of the Bertillon system shows that Bently has served a great many years of his life in prison for attempting to cash bad checks. The man is sixty-two years of age.

SHARON UNABLE TO SELL LIGHT PLANT

Village in Walworth County Faces Difficulty in Quitting Municipal Ownership.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., May 4.—Regardless of the merits or demerits of municipal ownership, many interesting propositions have been advanced for the sale of the village of Sharon recently burned out and as a result the village decided to go out of the business. It appeared easy enough on the face of it, but when the village board began to investigate it they found a most peculiar situation. They learned first of all that they were in no position to let go, as there is no provision in the state law which would enable them to do so. They finally appealed to the state commission and Secretary Geisse has tackled the proposition. Thus far about the only important fact he has been able to uncover is that the village cannot sell. A similar situation arose in Massachusetts and it required legislative action to unravel the matter.

NO EVIDENCE FOWLER HAD ACCOMPLICE

WHILE REYNOLDS IS STILL LOCKED UP IT IS POSSIBLE HE WILL BE RELEASED BY TOMORROW.

INQUEST HELD TODAY

Detectives Are Confident That Fowler Was Alone in His Crime—Gundersen Sweated Out by Authorities Told Straight Story.

With Archie Fowler dead from his self execution, Earl Reynolds still in jail here on the murder charge, with Andrew Gundersen released from custody, the Walwig case is now at a standstill. It is only a question of time that Reynolds will be proven innocent of any connection with the offense and the authorities will be convinced that Archie Fowler alone committed the murder.

Not that the authorities are going to close up the case because Fowler killed himself, but District Attorney S. G. Dunwiddie and the two detectives were of the opinion four days ago that Fowler alone killed Walwig. However, as Fowler's repeated confessions named Reynolds they were forced to follow this "lead" and examine the facts. The officers may dig up evidence that there was a second man guilty in the crime, but now it is impossible to make any statements that will tend to show this fact.

Hold Inquest.

This morning Dr. Frank Ryan, county coroner, held an inquest over the death of Archie Fowler. The six jurors, J. H. Jones, L. H. Case, Robert Boyd, T. P. Burns, George Olin and Frank P. Crook, were sworn in the presence of the body. The testimony was taken at the municipal court. Dr. Charles Sutherland, who was called at the jail, after Fowler had been cut down, said death was due from strangulation, caused by hanging. The physician stated the man had been dead only a few minutes when discovered, and he argued just too late to revive him.

W. N. Bently, who was in charge of the jail at the time, testified that Fowler was brought from Beloit, where he waived his examination and was bound here in a trial cage. The trial cage was on the ten o'clock car. The trip back was taken in the car arriving here at eleven, when Fowler was taken to the jail and placed in the upper tier of cells, alone. A twenty-minute ride on the car, with a man named Nels Hogeland, who is a paroled commitment law prisoner, went to these cells to obtain a coat and hat for Hogeland. Fowler was seen looking out the window at that time, said Wogon. Hogeland failed to see him, saying he did not pay any attention to anything except obtaining his clothes.

Testimony Given.

At ten minutes to one, when Detective Powe came, he started to take dinner up to Fowler, and found him hanging. The strips of wool blanket had been cut down around the neck of the body. The youth was hanging free from the floor. After shouting to Fowler, Powe jerked down the cloth straps except one piece, which was cut. Powe was dead, a victim of his conscience, on a gallows of his own making.

The jury brought in the usual verdict, that Fowler died from hanging. It was stated that Fowler was cut down coming back from Beloit and had nothing to say. He was ready to pay the supreme penalty at that time, and was waiting for the gallows to be set up. The hanging must have been done in twenty minutes' time, and he must have climbed up the cells and after winding the strips, dropped over a foot high in the air.

Fowler's father and Rev. A. Finn, pastor of the West Side Methodist church, were present at the inquest. The father exhibited no grief that was visible. The funeral services, they said, will be held tomorrow. An interment was to be made near Brodhead, where Fowler lived for many years.

In a separate cell Reynolds is yearning for freedom, finding he is cleared of the crime. This man lived in Milton for five years and attended graded school there. He also worked a short while in Rockford, and for eight years resided in Beloit.

In no case within recent years has there been so much work done as connected with the Walwig mystery. Credit is due to Detectives Diamond and Diat, to Attorney Dunwiddie and Sheriff Chamberlain. All the men and officers played an important part in unraveling the mystery, which they worked out link by link. Fowler confessed as much as he did because they made him, and to shield himself from all blame he at last revealed the

GENERAL VISITING DAY AT H. S. FRIDAY; EVERYONE INVITED

City Schools Are Closed Tomorrow Afternoon—Visiting Day at High School Is Planned.
A general visiting day that will give those of all other years, has been planned by the teachers of the high school, to be held tomorrow afternoon and evening. Tomorrow is Arbor Day and all the public schools in the city will be closed in the afternoon. A few of the ward schools have planned to have short programs in the morning, while at the high school, the building will be open to visitors from two to four in the afternoon and from seven to nine o'clock in the evening.

The students of the school have been urged to notify their parents and friends to come to the school and visit the school authorities hope that everyone in the city will feel that they are welcome to come and visit the school.

Each and every department of the school will have exhibits of their work on display and students and teachers will be in the class rooms to explain and answer questions that are not made clear to the visitors. The domestic science and manual training departments will have the largest displays.

Miss Beth Bailey, who has charge of the domestic science course, has arranged for a grand display of all the work the four classes have done in cooking and sewing. In sewing the students have made many sorts of dresses, from the handsomest gown to the plain house dress. Every phase of the work will be illustrated in the four rooms of the home economics department. A feature of the exhibition will be a sophomore cooking class at work from three to four in the afternoon and seven-thirty to eight-thirty in the evening. Refreshments will also be served during the visiting hours.

In the manual training department a large collection of articles made by the members of the classes will be on exhibition. The freshmen in this work have made small pieces of furniture, bird houses, and many other useful articles. They also do work in drawing. The sophomores do wood-turning work and drawing. The junior class have been turning out fine work in forging and much interest has been shown in this work by the members of the class. The senior boys have been doing good work and in the last year they have made many improvements around the school building. They constructed new bleachers in the gymnasium and they completely remodeled the boys' dressing rooms.

Everyone in the city is invited to attend the open house at the high school tomorrow and it is hoped that a large number of persons will visit the building.

MEET TO PLAN FOR ALFALFA CAMPAIGN

Directors of Farm Improvement Association to Complete Arrangements at Beloit.
Members of the executive board of the Rock County Farm Improvement association met at Beloit this afternoon to arrange for the dates of the alfalfa campaign for Rock county farms and farmers. E. L. Racey, C. P. Rathens and W. J. Dougan of Beloit, and A. S. Kellogg and L. A. Markham of this city, composed the board and attended the session. This morning Mr. Markham said that the tentative date planned upon was May 23. Mr. Fraber, Madison, secretary of the Wisconsin Alfalfa Order, has informed the officers of the association that he will be able to be present on this date and on the day following if enough interest is shown beforehand by the farmers, to warrant a two days campaign.

It was thought a week or more ago that the two days campaign would be possible from a conservative view of interest shown at that time. Providing this is really true the time will be spent in the northwestern and southeastern alfalfa sections of the county, the interested farmers on the trip traveling in automobiles furnished gratis for the occasion by farmers themselves and by others interested to see Rock county establish a place for itself in the alfalfa growing counties of the state and the west.

MEN'S CHORUS AT Y. M. C. A. TO GIVE CONCERT WEDNESDAY

Much interest is being shown in the men's chorus at the Young Men's Christian association which will make its first appearance before the public next Wednesday evening. This organization is filling a long-felt need in the city as there are many good singers among the young men and it affords them a good chance to make use of their talent. The chorus now has about twenty members who have been coming to the weekly practices which are conducted under the direction of Prof. J. S. Taylor. Only good music is being used, which makes the work all the more interesting.

A Big Part of the World

Knows

not alone for its delicious, nut-like flavour, but more for its wonderful nerve and brain making, bone and muscle building qualities.

Grape-Nuts supplies certain essential elements, abundantly stored in the field grains, but which are lacking in many foods. Especially is this true of foods made from white flour, because in making flour white the larger part of the energizing mineral elements are thrown out in the milling process.

Made of whole wheat and malted barley, Grape-Nuts supplies all the rich nourishment of the grains, is long baked and rendered quickly digestible, and yields a big return of brain, nerve and muscle energy.

Wherever you go you'll find Grape-Nuts.

AVERAGE SWISS MAN BETTER WAR STOCK THAN MALE OF U. S.

This Physical Condition Due Entirely To Compulsory Military Of
The Little Republic

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Berne, May 4.—The average Swiss man is better physically and as a soldier than the average American male, thanks to the system of compulsory military training in Switzerland.

"Get under the hide," a statement like this, but it's true. Every male Swiss can shoot straight, run longer, march farther and endure more than the average male American. You have only to know what the Swiss are taught to do and what the average American isn't taught to do to realize that this is true.

Every Swiss school boy must go to a gymnasium. Every Swiss school must have a gymnasium. It doesn't matter whether it's a church school or a business college or a fancy, high-priced school for little Swiss Lord Pauntierers; it must have a gymnasium.

In this gymnasium must be taught daily, certain exercises prescribed by the government. These are the highly scientific product of the deepest study in physical development.

The average American doesn't even know what these exercises are. Now and then, it is true, after he's answering an advertisement and purchases some alleged scientific physical culture book and follows the instructions therein.

A Swiss school boy of ten could teach him a world of valuable things in this time.

By the time a Swiss school boy is twenty he has developed his physique to its high point.

He has made his body as fine and strong as his particular body can be made.

This has been done scientifically and manfully the call of his splendid muscles has driven him to football and other sports.

That crowded Polo grounds in New

BELL-ANS
Absolutely Removes
Indigestion. One package proves it. 25c at all druggists.

York makes you sick, when you look over these Swiss. You couldn't get 10,000 healthy Swiss to sit around all of an afternoon watching other men play a game. Each man wants to play himself. Hundreds of little sport centers are always busy.

That cheering grandstand at the Polo Grounds, filled with men that couldn't run to first base without puffing, is a disgusting thought, here in the war country.

Anything in the world is better than that. Any pacifist must admit that even learning how to shoot, out in the country-learning how to shoot with the intention of killing an enemy some day if you have to—is better than the average American's silly mental participation in baseball. Or, if you're too much of a baseball fan, make it kelly pool.

The average Swiss boy can outshoot the average American boy. The Swiss boy belongs to a rifle club in his neighborhood. The club is supported by the community. His shooting costs him nothing. Let the American boy get the idea that he wants to be a sharpshooter. Where can he learn? Where, in most cases, will he find the money to buy his rifle and ammunition?

Rich American boys, true enough, have opportunity to learn the art of shooting. Good shooting is among the accomplishments of almost every rich American youth.

But the average American boy, no matter how deeply he may be stirred by his desire to learn how to defend himself and his country in war, is without a chance unless he later in life develops political or social ambition and goes into the state militia.

In his shooting, as in his physical training, the Swiss youth finds a world of fun. There are shooting matches in various neighborhoods of a canton.

Finally, the champions of a canton are weeded out. They shoot against each other in semi-finals and every year at Berne there is a great national shooting match that draws throngs of husky shooting men from every corner of the little country.

Varlike sports, says the pacifist. Yes, but it's a sport that keeps Swiss and from war. And baseball and cricket never kept any country from war.

Dog Not Troubled.
My little brother has a Newfoundland dog of which he is very fond, and never allows anybody to scold or abuse. The new cock could not talk English, and one day he heard her scolding his dog (in German) for chewing on the rug. He came to me laughing and said: "Gretchen is scolding Prince, but he don't care; he just sits there and wags his tail, because he can't understand German."—Chicago Tribune.

SELLING EGGS BY WEIGHT IN CITY OF APPLETON

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Appleton, May 4.—"How many pounds of eggs do you wish today?" This will be the popular question in the future at stores where hen fruit is distributed, if dealers in produce in this city have their way. At least 80 per cent of the merchants of Appleton favor a change in the weights and measures laws of Wisconsin providing for the sale of eggs by weight rather than by count, according to city sealer George D. Gilman.

Gilman recently made a canvas of the merchants of the city on the question.

The proposed law will provide that the consumer may order eggs by the dozen but will pay for them by weight. Eggs vary in weight from 1 1/4 to 1 3/4 ounces pounds a dozen.

Another thing which the law would determine is the number of days an egg may be defined as "strictly fresh" and the length of time it may be termed just "fresh."

Steps will be taken to bring the proposed law before the next meeting of the Wisconsin legislature.

AMERICAN COLD STORAGE BEEF IS MOST POPULAR WITH PEOPLE OF FRANCE

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Paris, May 4.—"Frigor," as the French call American cold storage beef, has taken so well in France that its popularity has, for the time being at least, defeated the purpose of its importation—that is to say, the easing of retail prices of meat. The Mayors of several suburban towns having expressed the wish to follow the example of their Parisian colleagues and organize retail stores for the sale of refrigerator meat, were informed that they must go slow, as the imported article is rare. Many butchers who resisted its introduction at first are now selling it at the same prices as fresh meat; in some cases it has brought even more. The authorities are taking the matter up and propose to fix maximum retail prices.

ORPET, EXPECTING ACQUITTAL KEEPS UP STUDY IN JAIL; TRIAL SET FOR MAY 15.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Waukegan, Ill., May 4.—Will Orpet, the University of Wisconsin student held without bail, for trial May 15 on a charge of murdering his sweetheart, Marian Lambert at Lake Forest, March 10, by administering cyanide of potassium, is hard at work from morning until night poring over his text-books and keeping up with his classes.

Orpet expects to be acquitted and he does not wish to get behind in his college work. The poor jail light has strained his eyes, but he will not give up his work, despite advice. While trustees are allowed to stroll about the outer corridors which are well lighted, Orpet, because of the seriousness of the charge against him, is confined in the "bull-pen" which is gloomy.

Attorneys for Orpet have agreed to have the trial in Waukegan and no fight will be made to take it elsewhere. Difficulty in his case, expected in getting a jury because of the wide publicity given the case.

Judge Charles H. Dornelly of Woodstock, who will hear the case, admitted today that at least five hundred veniremen probably will have to be called to get a jury. Deputy Sheriff Elmer J. Green thinks this estimate is too low. He said two thousand veniremen will be required.

The last man named in Lake County was Chris Rafferty, who killed a Chicago policeman. It took 2,500 veniremen for that jury. The state will call sixty-six witnesses. The trial may last a month.

The witnesses include relatives and intimate friends of Orpet and Marian Lambert, college students from Madison, physicians, chemists and experts of all kinds, and newspaper men who talked with Orpet.

The Orpet defense will be that Marian Lambert committed suicide.

BADGER STATE TAKES HIGH PLACE IN RANKS IN CATTLE SHIPMENTS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Whitewater, Wis., May 4.—Wisconsin is rapidly taking its place among the leading cattle shipping states in the country again since the quarantine established when the hoof and mouth disease was prevalent in the state has been lifted, according to a statement made by leading cattlemen here today.

Many buyers from western states where there is considerable grazing land have been purchasing stock in fairly large quantities through Southwestern Wisconsin since the quarantine was lifted.

One of the largest shipments since the ban on sending cattle out of the state was removed, went to Arizona recently. It consisted of 278 grade cows and twenty registered Holsteins purchased in Walworth county through A. M. Hanson of this city. The 298 cattle sold for $19,076.

THE REST ROOM.

Ladies of the city, interested in civic matters, have put their shoulder to the wheel and are seeking to raise sufficient funds to establish a rest room for visitors and residents, and maintain it for a year. It is a big undertaking and one which every business and professional man in the city should aid by material contributions. It is a task of love on the part of the ladies behind the movement and they are devoting their time and energy to make it a success. It is not questioned that such a project is one of the essentials at present lacking to make Janesville a shopping center for the surrounding country. It is not a money-making project, but a philanthropy that deserves hearty support. The first few days of the campaign for funds has been far from satisfactory from a financial point of view. The sum of fifteen hundred dollars is needed and while the ladies, through their various club organizations plan to raise a part of this sum themselves, still they need a thousand dollars from the business interests of the city. Thus far the sum total is short of four hundred dollars and while some subscriptions have been received, liberal others will have to be doubled before the sum needed can be reached. It will not be entirely a rest room but also a place where girls working in factories can go to eat their lunches, can rest and refresh themselves and also will have a free employment agency feature, so much needed in the city. The room and a meeting place for the young women of the city with a matron in attendance to act as a chaperone if needed.

In plain words the present room plan is simply the forerunner of a Young Women's association so much needed in the city and combined with the rest room feature a most valuable addition to the city. The ladies are most anxious to complete their work and have the room ready for occupancy by June first. Its location will be central and will be available to all women who desire to avail themselves of its accommodations. But first of all the money must be raised and when the committees call on the business men it is hoped they will respond liberally. The money is needed.

DEMOCRATIC METHODS.

Representative Johnson of Washington, has started the house by pointing out the methods by which the democratic administration is achieving economy in the transaction of the public business. As is well known, the lumber industry of the Puget Sound region has suffered severely ever since the Underwood tariff bill went into effect. But when congress passed legislation, authorizing the building by the federal government of the Alaskan railway there were some optimists on the Pacific slope who had imagined that benefit would accrue to the industry. They had no appreciation of democratic methods, however. There was abundant timber in the national forest reserve and its cutting and shipping would have provided employment for numerous lumbermen who had been thrown out of employment by the Underwood bill. But the democratic administration had determined to be economical at all costs. It found that lumber could be purchased in British Columbia, where there is an abundance of Hindoo and Chinese labor which will work for next to nothing, for less than it would cost to cut the timber in the forest reserves of Washington and, accordingly, the contract for ties, shoring, etc., for the Alaskan railway was let to British Columbia lumbermen and the American workmen in Washington were at liberty to seek a means of livelihood elsewhere.

AUTOMOBILE LEARNERS.

The lower price for automobiles is multiplying the machines and many learners are on the road taking lessons in driving. The most conservative citizen may be transformed when he first gets behind the steering wheel. Previously he has demanded full sentences for fast driving. But in the car he fails to realize how fast he goes. The process of stopping and starting looks difficult and he is fearful of stalling his engine. He is apt to keep going in a mix-up of teams and people, when he ought to stop and let the tangle clear up.

Many people who have ridden bicycles get certain elements of driving very quickly. After they have gone twenty-five miles they can make an excellent bluff at steering a car in the open country. This gives them premature confidence and boldness. They think their education is complete, and go banging through the next town with teams tied at hitching posts, carriages going both ways, and bicycles, children, and elderly people in the streets. Only by a miracle of deftness can the instructor save them.

The difficult thing is not learning to start on a straight track. That is nothing. It is the quick, unconscious shifting of gears and change of speeds and directions to get around in towns. It takes time to acquire this skill. Those who think too soon that they have it, are likely to find their mistake to their cost.

The position of instructor for a garage or selling agency is responsible. The teacher must be in control of a machine of whose power and destructiveness, he has little realization. He needs to caution him when he sees trouble ahead, and not let him get up to his neck in a tight place. There is too much of a tendency to place immature fellows in this important post.

THE RIVER BANKS.

Now that the city is spick and span, or should be, why not pay some attention to the river banks in the downtown district, as viewed from the bridges. They are apparently neglected. If we are to beautify the city and the river by having numerous wild fowl, graceful swans and geese swimming about for the enjoyment of the public, why not clean up the river banks and make them at least presentable. Once upon a time there is a theory that a hog did better in a dirty, muddy pig sty, but now the farmers tell us that the hog is a clean beast. Enjoys a good, dry, warm litter, drinks fresh, clean water, and while he likes a mud bath he does not differ from his two-legged brother who also takes mud baths when permitted. If this be true, why not clean up the refuse along the river banks and at least make them presentable. Could not this be accomplished by a crusade of the Civic League, or the committee on civic welfare, or the Commercial club without much trouble?

TRUE SOLDIERS.

It is the consensus of opinion in Washington that the American soldiers in Mexico have made a remarkable showing of bravery and efficiency and that great credit is due both officers and men for the small number of casualties which have attended the punitive expedition. Authentic accounts of the affair at Parral reflect great credit on Major Frank Tompkins, who was in command of the little American force which was ambushed there through the treachery of the Carranzistas. It appears that on the day before Major Tompkins took the precaution to send word to Governor Herrero of that state, informing him of his approach, asking advice as to a camping ground and for permission for the soldiers to make purchases in the city. The governor sent a messenger to Major Tompkins, saying a camp would be selected and prepared for the Americans and that they would be welcomed at the governor's house the following morning, while an American merchant with whom they could trade was named. The following morning Major Tompkins entered the town and marched to the governor's residence. As he was leaving, Carranzista soldiers and citizens began to abuse and throw stones at the command. Major Tompkins, with great skill, led his men from the town but, as they reached the outskirts, the Carranzista soldiers fired and the Carranzistas fell dead. A few minutes later Carranzistas fired several volleys from earthworks outside the city. It was when these volleys were returned that many Mexicans fell. It was necessary to clear the earthworks before the attack ceased. An examination of the camping ground selected by the governor showed that it would have put the entire command at the mercy of the Carranzistas and the military authorities believe that only to the refusal of Major Tompkins to accept the site designated was a complete massacre of the command averted. From all quarters are coming reports highly creditable to the bravery and discipline of the American soldiers, who have remained firm and brave even when confronted with the utmost provocation.

BITTER ABUSE.

Of course it is to be expected that abuse will be the target for bitter abuse from the ultra progressive press of the state. They are only waiting their cue from Washington where sits the senior state's representative to begin their tirade and cover up the deficiency of his votes on the tariff and against the state's interest ever since he accepted the office. It is going to be some campaign, but the republicans have named a man who will not let grass grow under his feet and the voters can be promised plenty of pen and ginger in the coming battle royal for preferment at the September primaries. Jeffris is a fighter and has had to battle it out for himself since he was thirteen and has made a success of it. He will not let up now and the more they abuse him the harder he will fight.

The man who skims only the headlines of the war news may yet read every word in the classified advertising, which comes home closer to his daily interests.

The Cannibal Queen.
Oh, the cannibal queen
Is a lady, I ween,
Who must live in state of content.
She is free from the wiles
Of fashion and styles,
And doesn't depend on some gent
Of the tight-fisted way
Who has plenty to say
On the subject of money that's spent.

If some dame of her set
Happens but to forget
And says catty things of Her Nibs,
She can chop off the head
Of the lady instead
Of bearing the gossiping fibs.
She can always collect
Quite a lot of respect
That most men don't hand to their "ribs."

She can wear what she likes
When she goes on her hikes
And no one dares utter a word,
Though her gown is passe
Or is gaudy and gay,
And her hat is truly quite absurd.
They have got to admit,
There is no doubt of it,
That their monarch is surely a bird.

There was a bad fire the other night
In Anse Purdy's corner. It was explained
That the Wide Awake Hose company's uniform

Would not appear without the proper regalia.
Anse tried to form a bucket brigade but his wife had soft soap in all the pails

It was a terrible conflagration while it lasted and one life was putty nigh lost. When the fire was at its height, it was discovered that Uncle Ezra Peters was inside and had been there three days hidin' from his wife. He didn't dast come out then for his wife was in the crowd watchin' the fire, but was dragged out

"Yes, I presume when you sum it all up together it is probably good economy to own and operate a REFRIGERATOR the year around."

"It is impossible to estimate the amount of food we have actually lost in the past year through lack of refrigeration. Frozen cream is a poor substitute for the real article. It requires about twice as much to give even a fair color to coffee in the morning, and sour cream is no good at all."

"You heat your house in winter and it is naturally warm in summer. Muggy days in spring and fall spoil foods within a few hours. A REFRIGERATOR in the home is one of the surest means toward promoting domestic tranquility."

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND
BY DAISY DEAN

After all there really is such a thing as heaven on earth. For a young lady is a modern picture star and the fiancée of a large candy making concern at one and the same time and she says so herself.

Truth, stranger than fiction, shows that kind fortune has given the dual pleasure to Naomi Childers, who has won boxes and bags and bundles of candy and the heart of Harold D. Shattuck, general manager of a candy manufacturing company. The "D." in his initials she says means that his name is Harold Darling Shattuck. She calls him also her "Chocolate Soldier," and there seems to be no end to the taffy she would give about him.

Miss Childers and Shattuck were to be married in June, but she was sent away to Texas to participate in a big feature and the wedding was postponed until fall.

HOBBIES OF SCREEN FOLK

William Russell boasts a ranch where he raises thoroughbred poultry, paying him large returns both for eggs and birds.

Tom Chatterton, another rancher, though his interests are toward blooded cattle and horses.

Vivian Rich is an accomplished pianist, and receives high tuition from her few select pupils. Vivian is also clever at water colors, and has been prevailed upon to sell several of her best subjects to enthusiastic collectors.

Helen Ross's Persian kittens are famous in several southern California cities, and they bring high prices. Helen's greatest handicap is that she loves the tiny, silken pets so much she always hesitates to part with one.

Anna Little conducts a "beauty" column in a magazine.

Sidney Drew, now engaged with his attractive wife in making one-reel comedies, spends his nights home reading scenarios submitted to him during the day. Often he is obliged to remain up until after midnight.

Lenore Ulrich receives many requests for her photographs. One came from a young man who offered to send her one of his own photo-

Marin Sais of Kalem is said to have recently purchased a three hundred and twenty acre farm in Utah where she will start a stock ranch.

Seagrue struck his fist into his open hand. "I wanted that fellow worse than the other," he muttered between his teeth. For another moment he stood deep in thought. Then he turned savagely on Ward. "If Spike escaped, he will be at Helen's home. We will get him there." Ward nodded as coolly as if a further crime were a mere detail. "I'm going up there tonight," continued Seagrue, "and I must change for the evening now. Adams has two guns. Stop! There they are, on the table."

Seagrue, a little later, came in dressed. His tools had made their preparations and were dismissed with the injunction to eat their dinners before the murder was committed.

Walthall Shows His Great Strength in Play.

Henry B. Walthall, the strong-willed, unconventional, Jack Craigen in Essary's film version of "The Misleading Lady," exerted great strength in the taking of the abduction scene. Walthall, as Craigen, kidnaps Edna Mayo and carries her to a waiting automobile. The scene was not quite satisfactory to the director. Everything was all right up to the carrying of the girl. The way Walthall lifted her to his shoulder, by a streak of extraordinary luck was one that was hard to equal. So Walthall kept Miss Mayo on his shoulder for a half hour as the picture of his running to the car was taken again and again. When the actress had been safely deposited and the car rolled out of the scene, Walthall smiled, rubbed his shoulder and suggested that he was no Hercules. Mr. Walthall and Miss Mayo will be seen in "The Misleading Lady," at the Beverly theatre tonight.

AT THE APOLLO.

Noted Artists in Redpath Attraction Tonight.

There are five members in the Kellogg-Haines Singing Party, including a pianist. This attraction will be heard tonight only at the Apollo. Miss Merle Hartwell, soprano, was for two years prima donna of the Delmar Stock company of St. Louis, for two years previous she was first soprano of the San Souz quartet which filled numerous concert and club engagements in the middle west, and she has been soprano soloist in several prominent St. Louis churches. Miss Alice Montague, the contralto, studied for two years under the well-known Professor McBurney of Chicago and was for a time soloist of the big Hyde Park Baptist church in that city. She is a graduate of the Chicago university with an A. B. degree. John Echenberger, tenor, was soloist in several of the best paid church choirs in St. Louis, has had theatrical experience and has coached with the best teachers in this country.

William A. Goldburg, baritone, was a boy wonder on the violin, later discovering that he had a fine voice. He gave up the violin for voice, although he had played violin for years professionally. He had also sung leading grand opera roles in English before entering the theatre.

Delbert Chute, the pianist, is a pupil of Henriot Levy, one of the foremost piano teachers in the United States and has had work in harmony and theory with Adolphe Branc. Mr. Chute has shown great promise as a composer, and as an accompanist as well as solo pianist, has received much favorable press comment.

Truth About "Twilight Sleep" Method. "Twilight Sleep" says many doctor specialists is especially a new method in America. The American woman is all nerve; she is susceptible; she is educated and high strung; she fears the pains of motherhood more than the less nervous German woman, and she is more keenly sensitive to pain. For that reason she needs twilight sleep and for that reason also she is a better subject. She needs fewer doses of scopolamine. It is this psychological phase of the development of the "Twilight Sleep" in America that is especially interesting.

In Germany it has been tried with many peasant women, and with these is not the slightest risk in using it, it is not necessary, and the peasant type of woman does not need it. She is a normal woman and is fitted for the duties of motherhood. From the point of view of the obstetrician the modern woman of the cities is a dangerous woman. To put it brutally the educated woman is not a good breeder. And it is she who needs the "Twilight Sleep" and just because she is all nerves, she is a perfect subject for the treatment. Those who oppose the treatment said it was a matter of suggestion. Perhaps there is something of suggestion in it, but if the result could be had from suggestion, they would never use another bit of scopolamine.

The modern woman of the cities—the stenographer, the lawyer, the doctor—is the woman who fears motherhood. She avoids it because she is afraid of the result. She hears of "Twilight Sleep" and she loses her fear. She approaches it calmly and without hesitation. There is no action on the heart that is frequently due to fear. For these women "Twilight Sleep" is a boon. To the peasant woman who has no such fear, to whom motherhood is a normal function, "Twilight Sleep" is not necessary. Christian Science has made progress in America for the same reason that "Twilight Sleep" has. It would make better progress among the peasant women of Germany.

The men throughout are not so much interested, and the average physician, being a man, is not interested either. He does not understand it, and, being human, like the rest of us, he is lazy. "Twilight Sleep" requires the undivided attention of a physician all during the period of labor, and the average physician is not willing to give this much time. Being a man, he says that the pains of labor are normal; that nature intended women to suffer. The good man who wrote the story of Adam and Eve had the same idea. But, as a matter of fact, the pains of labor are not normal. Animals do not suffer. It is only the woman, who is the product of civilization—in other words, the degenerate—who endures what we know as the pains of child-birth. And "Twilight Sleep" is not a cureall. It is not going to inaugurate a new era in motherhood. No one knows where the tendency on the part of the modern woman to avoid child-birth will lead. For time being the possibility of "Twilight Sleep" will.

leverman, too late for him to avert the disaster, if one were impending from his action—the chute was coming down. But at the instant the monster maw was opened and tons of heavy quartz shot into the gondola, Helen, outside the car, turned the dumping key and Storm dropped through the opened car bottom under the trestle. The ore at the same moment was pouring in at the top.

When the young engineer returned to consciousness, Helen was raining tears and kisses on his upturned face. He lay under the trestle, freed from the cords that had so nearly caused his death, mine men and the guests of the day crowding around. He staggered to his feet and greeted his deliverer.

"They had Spike, too," he said, speaking rapidly to Helen. "We must find him before he is smothered."

There was no need for her to answer. Spike spoke for himself. "And what I want to do," he said with heat, when he had told Storm the story, "is to get that Special back to the bridge and get after the guy that roped me."

The neighborhood was scoured for a sign of their assailants. They found where the taxicab had stood in which Seagrue's pair had come up. But the two had long ago made their escape and were running back to town to report to their employer.

Hastening up the stairs, looking guiltily over their shoulders as if fearful of immediate apprehension for their crime, Ward and Adams burst into Seagrue's room.

Seagrue was in waiting. "We got Storm," Ward began.

"Good!" cried Seagrue.

"Spike got away!"

FEEL YOUNG!

It's Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets For You!

Beware of the habit of constipation. It develops from taking a few constipated days, unless you take yourself in hand. Constipation is the jaded bowel reaction back to normal action with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Don't force them to unnatural action with severe medicines or by merely flushing out the intestines with nasty, sickening cathartics.

Dr. Edwards believes in gentleness, persistence and Nature's assistance. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets open the bowels; their action is gentle, yet positive. There is never any pain or griping when Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are used. Just the kind of treatment all persons should have.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. Take one or two occasionally and have no trouble with your liver, bowels or stomach. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, O.

Such is Feminine Nature. Once there was a model young man. He boasted in a chaste and triumphant way that he had never used tobacco nor liquor, had never attended a dance nor a horse race and never played a game of cards. He never went to the theater to see a real show, but was extremely fond of helpful lectures and greatly enjoyed the chautauqua. Indeed, he stuck so closely to the straight and narrow way that all the parents in the community pointed to him as being everything that a young man should be, and all the girls went with the other fellows. —Kansas City Star.

Not What He Wanted. I had taken my little nephew to a restaurant for dinner. When the waiter put the menu down in front of him, he picked it up and handed it back to him. Politely, "We don't want anything to read, thank you. We want something to eat." —Chicago Tribune.

AUTO MAN GOT GOOD TIP FROM FRIEND

John Emery Tells How Advice of Friend Has Had Good Effect. Men and women from all walks of life are quick to recognize the superior merit which makes Tanlac the national household medicine of today. Not only do they see the superiority of the great remedy and system builder but they tell their friends about it, and the personal recommendation of a friend is after all the best advertisement any article can have.

This is what John Emery of 470 Grover street, Kenosha had to say recently:— "I am employed by the Jeffrey Automobile company and for some time have been run down, half sick and worn out. I suffered from kidney disorders, backache, constipation and headaches. I had but little energy. I was quite nervous and slept badly at nights. My digestion was not good and my appetite was poor. Many friends advised me to take different remedies but nothing helped me until one day some one told me about Tanlac. I did not have much faith in any medicine but decided to try this Tanlac because it was recommended so highly.

A short time after I began its use I noticed a decided improvement in my condition. I began to have more life, to sleep better and to enjoy my meals. I soon got rid of that pain in my back and began to feel better all over. I now take pleasure in endorsing Tanlac because I know that it has merit.

Tanlac may be obtained here at Smith's Drug Store. Drop in and see the Tanlac representative and hear all about the new medicine.

"All right. Three of my teams will be here by midnight, at the latest. The drivers and helpers will be good men and you can trust them. Don't let anything interfere with your getting safely up to the mountain tonight. There'll be warm times in Gomorrah from this on and I want a free hand—which I shouldn't have with you here."

"Oh, I'm glad, glad!—and I'm just as scared as I can be!" she gasped with true feminine inconsistency. "They will single you out first, what if I am sending you to your death, Victor! Oh, please don't go and break my heart the other way across by getting killed!"

He drew a deep breath and laughed. "You don't know how good it sounds to hear you say that—and say it in that way. I sha'n't be reckless. But I'm going to bring J. Wesley and his crowd to book—they've got to go, and they've got to turn the 'Little Susan' loose."

"They will never do that," she said sadly. "I'll make them; you wait and see." She looked up with the violet eyes kindling. "I told you once that you could do anything you wanted to—if you only wanted to hard enough. I believed it then; I believe it now."

"No," he denied with a smile that was half sorrowful, "I can't make two hills without a valley between them. I've chased down the back track like a little man—for love's sake, Amy—and I've burned all the bridges behind me as I ran; namely, the sham deeds to the pieces of reservoir bottom I'd been buying. But when it is all over I shall be just where I was when we began—exactly one hundred thousand dollars short of being able to say: 'Come, girl, let's go and get married.'"

"But father owes you a hundred thousand dollars," she said quickly. "Not in a hundred thousand years, O most inconsistent of women! Didn't we agree that that money was poisoned? It was the purchase price of an immortal soul, and I wouldn't touch it with a pair of tongs. That is why your father couldn't use it; it belonged to the devil and the devil wanted it back."

"Father won't take that view of it," she protested. "Then you'll have to help me to bully him, that's all. But I must go and relieve Grizzly, who is doing guard duty at the mixers. . . . Tell your father—no, that isn't what I meant to say, it's this— and his arms went suddenly across the hundred-thousand-dollar chasm."

CHAPTER XXIII

Exodus

In the Yellowstone National park there is an apparently bottomless pit which can be instantly transformed into a spouting, roaring Vesuvius of boiling water by the simple expedient of dropping a bar of soap into it.

The Spotlight went to press at three o'clock. By the earliest gray of dawn, and long before the sun had shown itself above the eastern Timanons, Brouillard's bar of soap was melting and the Mirapolitan underdepths were beginning to heave. Like wildfire, the news spread from lip to lip and street to street, and by sunrise the geyser was retching and vomiting, belching debris of cries and maledictions, and pouring excited and riotous crowds into Chigringo avenue.

Most naturally, the Spotlight office was the first point of attack, and Harlan suffered loss, though it was inconsiderable. At the battering down of the doors the angry mob found itself confronting the young reclamation service chief and four members of his staff, all armed. Brouillard spoke briefly and to the point.

"I am the man who wrote that article you've been reading, and Mr. Harlan printed it as a matter of news. If you have anything to say to me you know where to find me. Now, move on and let Mr. Harlan's property alone or somebody will get hurt."

Nobody stayed to press the argument at the moment. An early-morning mob is proverbially incoherent and incohesive; and, besides, loaded Winchester men are apt to have an eloquence which is more or less convincing.

But with the opening of business the geyser spouted again. The exchanges were mobbed by eager sellers, each frenzied struggling against hope that he might find someone simple enough to buy. At ten o'clock the bank closed. "Temporarily," the placard noted. But there were plenty to believe that it would never open again.

By noon the trading panic had exhausted itself a little, though the lobby and cafe of the Metropole were crowded, and anxious groups quickly formed around any nucleus of rumor or gossip in the streets.

Between one and two o'clock, while Brouillard, Leshington and Anson were hastily eating a luncheon sent over to the mapping room from Bongras, Harlan drifted in.

"Spill your news," commanded Leshington gruffly. "What's doing, and who's doing it?"

"Nobody, and nothing much," said Harlan, answering the two queries as one. "The town is falling apart like a bunch of sand and the get-away has set in. Two full trains went east this forenoon, and two more are scheduled for this afternoon if the railroad people can get the cars here."

"Good-by, little girl, good-by," hummed Grizzly, entering in time to hear the report of the flight.

But Leshington was shaking his big head moodily. "Laugh about it if you can, but it's no joke," he growled. "When the froth is blown away and the bubbles quit rising, there are going to be some mighty bitter settlements left in the bottom of the stein."

"You're right, Leshington," said Harlan, gravely. "What we're seeing now is only the shocked surprise of it—as when a man says 'Ouch!' before he realizes that the dog which has bitten him has a well-developed case of rabies. We'll come to the hydrophobic stage later on."

By nightfall of this first day the editor's ominous prophecy seemed about to reach its fulfillment. The avenue was crowded again and the din and clamor was the roar of a mob infuriated. Brouillard and Leshington had just returned from posting a company of the workmen guard at the mixers and crushers, when Grizzly, who had been scouting on the avenue, came in.

"Harmless enough yet," he reported. "It's only some more of the get-away that Harlan was describing. Just the same, it's something awful. People are fairly climbing over one another on the road up the hill to the station—with no possible hope of getting a train before some time tomorrow. Teamsters are charging twenty-five dollars a load for moving stuff that won't find cars for a week, and they're scarce at the price."

Leshington, who was not normally a profane man, opened his mouth and said things.

"If the Cortwright crowd had one man in it with a single idea beyond saving his own miserable stake!" he stormed. "What are the spell-binders doing, Grizzly?"

The hydrographer grinned. "Cortwright and a chosen few left this afternoon, hotfoot, for Washington, to get the government to interfere. That's the story they'd like to have the people believe. But the fact is, they ran away from Judge Lynch."

"Yes; I think I see 'em coming back—not!" snorted the first assistant.

Then to Brouillard: "That puts it up to us from this out. Is there anything we can do?"

Brouillard shook his head. "I don't want to stop the retreat. I've heard from President Ford. The entire western division will hustle the business of emptying the town, and the quicker it is done the sooner it will be over."

For a tumultuous week the flight from the doomed city went on, and the overtaxed single-track railroad wrought miracles of transportation. Not until the second week did the idea of material salvage take root, but, once started, it grew like Jonah's gourd. Hundreds of wrecking crews were formed. Plants were emptied, and the machinery was shipped as it stood. Houses and business blocks were gutted of everything that could be carried off and crowded into freight cars. And, most wonderful of all, cars were found and furnished almost as fast as they could be loaded.

"It begins to look a little better," said Anson on the day in the third week when the army of government laborers began to strip the final forms from the top of the great wall which now united the two mountain shoulders and completely overshadowed and dominated the dismantled town. "If the avenue would only take its hunch and go, the agony would be over."

But Brouillard was dubious. The avenue, more particularly the lower avenue, constituted the drag. Bongras, whom Brouillard had promised to indemnify, stayed; some of the shopkeepers stayed for the chance of squeezing the final trading dollar out of the government employees; the saloonkeepers stayed to a man, and the dives were still running full blast—chiefly now on the wages of the government force.

"It will be worse before it is better," was the young chief's prediction, and the foreboding verified itself that night. Looting of a more or less brazen sort had been going on from the first, and by nine o'clock of the night of prediction a loosely organized mob of drink-maddened terrorists was drifting from street to street, and there were violence and incendiarism to follow.

Though the property destruction mattered little, the anarchy it was breeding had to be controlled. Brouillard and Leshington got out their reserve force and did what they could to restore some semblance of order. It was little enough; and by ten o'clock the amateur policing of the city had reduced itself to a double guarding of the dam and the machinery, and a cordoning of the Metropole, the reclamation service buildings, and the Spotlight office. For Harlan, the dash of sporting blood in his veins asserting itself, still stayed on and continued to issue his paper.

"I said I wanted to be in at the death, and for a few minutes tonight I thought I was going to be," he told Brouillard, when the engineer had posted his guards and had climbed the stair to the editorial office. Then he asked a question: "When is this little hell-on-earth going to be finally extinguished, Victor?"

Instead of answering, Brouillard put a question of his own: "Did you know that Cortwright and Schermerhorn and Judge Williams came back this evening, Harlan?"

"I did," said the newspaper man. "They are registered at the Metropole as large as life."

"What's up?"

"That is what I'd like to know. There's a bunch of strangers at the Metropole, too, a sheriff's posse, Poodles thinks; at least, there is a deputy from Red Butte with the crowd."

Harlan tilted back in his chair and scanned the ceiling reflectively. "This thing is getting on my nerve, old man. I wish we could clean the slate and all go home."

"It is going to be cleaned. Notices will be posted tomorrow warning everybody that the waste-gates will be closed promptly on the date advertised."

"When is it? Things have been revolving too rapidly to let me remember such a trivial item as a date."

"It is the day after tomorrow, at noon."

The owner of the Spotlight nodded. "Let her go, Gallagher. I've got everything on skids, even the presses. A revolver—or perhaps one should say, Au revoir!"

Fresh shoutings and a crackling of pistols arose in the direction of the plaza, and Brouillard got up and went to a window. The red glow of other house burnings loomed against the somber background of Jack's mountain.

"Senseless savages!" he muttered, and then went back to the editor. "I don't like this Cortwright reappearing, Harlan. I wish I knew what it means."

"Let's see," said the newsman thoughtfully. "what is there worth taking that they didn't take in the saucy quip?" By Jove—say! Did old David Massingale get out of J. Wesley's clutches before the lightning struck?"

"I wish I could say 'Yes,' and be sure of it," was the sober reply. "You knew about the thieving stock deal, or what you didn't know I told you. Well, I had Massingale, as president, call a meeting of directors—which never met. Afterward, acting under legal advice, he went on working the mine, and he's been working it ever since, shipping a good bit of ore now and then, when he could squeeze it in between the get-away trains. Of course, there is bound to be a future of some sort; but that is the present condition of affairs."

"How about those notes in the bank? Wasn't Massingale personally involved in some way?"

Brouillard bounded out of his chair as if the question had been a point-blank pistol shot.

For hours the sympathetic mother had listened to her son's tirade against the college that had expelled him in disgrace and against his father for abetting them in it.

TROOPER RILEY'S TROOP MENTIONED IN BANDIT BATTLE

Janesville Cavalryman's Division of Force Penetrating Mexico Route
Villista Command.

Morning press dispatches today tell of a main battle between Col. George A. Dodd's Seventh Cavalry Troopers and Villistas at Tecuichic and the participation of Troop H. of which Elmer Riley, son of Michael J. Riley, 202 North Pearl street, is a member. The fight was on April 2. Motor couriers from the field headquarters arrived at Columbus, N. M., yesterday, May 3, with accounts and reports of the battle.

This was Colonel Dodd's description of the terrain of this meeting in southwestern Chihuahua, among towering mountains and rough country, where 100 bandits sought refuge. The Americans climbed the rough slopes with their knives in their teeth.

For two hours Dodd's troops of the Seventh Cavalry, E. H. L., fought savagely from an immense height, with the guerillas on three sides, and charged deliberately over marked ground with bullet puffs in the dust all about their feet. The Mexicans had their exact range. They counted "or at least fifty bandits killed or wounded, against an American loss of two dead and three wounded.

Two minutes later the Americans overtook the bandits at the Yocum mine, while they were looting the campfires telling the native Mexicans how they had whipped the "los Americanos" at Columbus and at Guerrero. At the same time exhibiting huge lumps of gold and silver taken from Mexican towns and melted down, which they asserted were spoils of war. Shortly before midnight an outpost ran in breathless shouting: "Los Americanos are coming in!"

In ten minutes the entire bandit command had galloped out of town. When the cavalrymen came in they found two American mining men, a Mr. Griffith and another, had paid $2,000 ransom to the Villistas, and whose lives probably had been saved by the Seventh's arrival.

These Americans said the bandits were led by Candelario Cervantes, Jesus Del Rio, Cruz Dominguez and Manuel Baca, who was killed the following Sunday after the fight by a Mexican.

Among them were followers of Julio Acosta and General Batran. There were remnants of all the known Villa commanders, veterans, and at that time at least the last known bandit or Villista remaining bad man who nerve had not been shaken by defeat at Columbus, Guerrero and Aguas Calientes.

Saturday afternoon at 4:30 Dodd's men, arriving at the southern rim of the hills forming the cup in which the town of Tecuichic lies, saw the band of Villistas riding out of town. Ahead of them they saw the main body of the bandits waiting behind a machine gun. A machine gun was placed to sweep this ridge while the Americans rode down into the cup in pursuit. They dismounted in town, advancing on foot, with rifles ready, led by Troop L, and accompanied by two guides.

While still in town a trooper was hit and mortally wounded. It came from the flank from a cave in a mountain overlooking Tecuichic. Out of a big adobe chimney the troops pulled a sniper, the only one caught in the place.

Beyond the town Troop L advanced to within range of the trees above. They crossed the range in short rushes, lying down and firing, then advancing a few yards. Colonel Dodd, with his staff, rode through this zone of fire, while bullets fell within a yard or two of every man until they reached a small knoll beyond the town. From here Dodd directed the fight. Another machine gun was brought up close to the force at the crest in front of the knoll. Out along the American line a trooper was lying on his stomach firing. His comrades saw a bullet strike forty feet in front of him, then another hopped twenty feet ahead of him. In a moment more a third ball struck him in the head, killing him. A lieutenant, lying among his men, directing the fire, was wounded.

Meanwhile the Americans had gotten the range of the Mexicans on the crest and checked their fire. Several freshly made graves on this crest, found next day, testified to the American victory. One Mexican leader on a gray horse rode into sight on the skyline half a dozen times, but seemed to be immune to bullets. His gray mount was the last living object the Americans saw. This horse was found wounded next day at Santo Tomas, where Manuel Baca, the Villista leader, was killed by Leoncio Alvarez, a Mexican, in the price of twenty silver pesos (about $7 American money). The Mexicans said the horse was Baca's.

HEAVY TAX ON MOTOR CARS
IN ENGLAND DISCOURAGES
BUILDING OF BIG MACHINES.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, May 4.—The cost in taxes of keeping a motor-car has been much higher in England than in America for some years, but under the new budget of the Chancellor of the Exchequer, it is increased to a level which will discourage all but the very rich, and particularly discourage the building of high power machines.

The old motor taxes ranged from ten dollars on a car of six and a half horse power, up to about $200 on a sixty horse power machine. Now this tax has been doubled on the smaller cars of sixteen horse power and less, while it is trebled on those of higher power, so that a sixty horse power car must pay about $600.

Still there is enough wealth in England, new war gains, and old accumulations, so that no radical reduction in the number of cars in use is expected immediately.

CROPS HAVE SUFFERED IN GREEN COUNTY.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Monroe, Wis., May 4.—According to farmers in this section, the hay crop with a few exceptions, such as alfalfa and clover have suffered seriously from the unusual weather during the winter and spring, and in many sections the farmers complain that the stand has been practically killed out. Clover has suffered even more seriously than the alfalfa.

During the winter there was not the usual fall of snow. Instead the ground was covered with a gle of ice much of the time which formed a hermetical covering of the earth, practically smothering the clover and alfalfa. This spring there was a constant thawing and freezing which started the new life in the clover and alfalfa roots, only to chill it the next day, with the result that serious damage was done.

To get a good stand of either clover or alfalfa requires several years of careful attention, so that it will likely be a serious matter with the farmers of this section as to what will be the crop for the coming winter season.

FILIPINOS ARE TAKING BIG INTEREST IN MANILA ELECTION ON JUNE 6th.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Manila, P. I., May 4.—The municipal government of Manila will undergo a radical change as a result of the city elections which will be held June 6, interest in which has already developed so far that there are seventy five candidates for the ten positions of members of the municipal board, which is to be elected. While heretofore the general mass of the Filipino people have paid little heed to elections, each year has shown a growing interest, and the coming local contest will be one of the most exciting political campaigns that the city has known since the American occupation.

The new city charter passed by the legislature at its last session calls for the election of a municipal board of ten members. Heretofore this board, which has consisted of six members, has had only two direct representatives of the people, the other members having been the alcade mayor, appointed by the governor-general, two other members appointed by the chief executive and the city engineer as a member ex-officio. The new charter requires the election of all members, not by districts, but by the city at large. In addition to the board, but not a member of it, there will be an alcade, appointed by the governor-general, and his office will closely resemble that of mayor of the average American city.

Some of the numerous candidates for places on the board are men who have mingled in the political game here since the first days of American occupation, but there are many newcomers, with new ideas and ideals of political service. In some respects the election will mark a battle between the old and the new, a struggle between the generation which has ruled Filipino politics for many years, and the generation which has barely come to maturity, the youth of the country.

STRAUSS'S NEW ALPINE SYMPHONY GETS PREMIERE.

Cincinnati, O., May 4.—Richard Strauss's new "Alpine" Symphony, one of the most important novelties of the present season abroad, will have its American premiere as part of the Cincinnati May Festival under the direction of Dr. Ernst Kunwald, conducting the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra here today.

In New York, the Philharmonic society had announced the symphony for first performances some weeks ago, but the announcement was withdrawn. The reason given was that many of the orchestral parts had not arrived from Europe on account of delays in mail due to the war, and the incident received considerable notice at the time.

Arrangements for the production of the work by Dr. Kunwald were hastily made. The work has received more notice than any new orchestral work of the present season.

MORRIS MILLER

There is little doubt that in due time the Boston Braves will take the lead in the National league race, and the chances are that the team will not be headed by the end of the season. Stallings has the best team he has ever presided over, and he is probably stronger in the pitching department than ever before. Barnes, Nehf, Rudolph and the veteran Tyler are all pitching high-grade ball, and with the team hitting up to its standard and a decidedly strong defensive line, the Braves are by far the most dangerous team in the old league. By the time the first clash with the western teams has been recorded the Braves will in all probability be leading the procession. The Braves who won the pennant and the world's series in 1914, were not near as strong an aggregation as this present one.

Pitcher Bullet Miller of the Pirates claims to have discovered a new delivery as a result of an injury. He injured a couple of fingers and then found they were not necessary in pitching the ball. Most school boys finger could have told him that "secret." It is possible that Miller has been taking a whole handful of ball which he may show up fairly well in his warmups. McGraw, however, is said to be convinced that "Big Six" is through, and if an opportunity to buy a good right-hander presents itself will not hesitate to pay a big price for him.

To lose the services of so great a finisher as Matty was a blow from which few clubs could emerge in good shape. McGraw eventually will get down to developing more youngsters. In order to build up a pitching staff which will be strong enough to carry his team along, but there probably never will be another Mathewson. He was one of the artists of the pitching profession, and it is doubtful if the game will again see his equal.

It is decidedly questionable whether the Pirates, over which Jimmy Callahan is presiding, will be prominent in the old league race. Cal needs a lot of better players than he has, though in spots he is well fortified. He has installed a lot of ginger in his players, and they are giving him "their best services." Otto Knabe, erstwhile Baltimore Peddler, has been shifted to third base for the Pirates. While this position is absolutely new to him, he has filled in brilliantly in the only game he has ever played there. Knabe is pretty certain to make a great man for Callahan, as he is an intelligent player, and one who always does his best for his team.

his rookies. He has turned over to Izzy Hoffman, the noted wing and target shot of Philadelphia, who will manage the Ridgeway, Pa., club. Pitcher Richardson and infielder McConnell, each are to report this week. McConnell may not join Hoffman, for the other night at a meeting of the Delaware County league, McConnell's name was turned over to President Weeks by the Brill team, where he is to play this season, according to reports. McConnell is a former Girard college boy and lives in Philadelphia. He joined the Athletics last year and later was sent to the North Carolina association. He was recalled by Mack this spring and worked with the team at Jacksonville.

GOSSARD PICTURES AT THE APOLLO

Packed Theatre Greets Mrs. Leonard's Attempt to Show the Fittings of Gossard Corsets in Moving Pictures.

The ladies of Janesville very enthusiastically responded to Mrs. Leonard's invitation to witness an exhibition of Gossard Corsets, and were around the fittings was a beautiful story entitled "How Marjorie Won a Career." The theme of the story followed usual style of many reel pictures and provided much amusement as well as educational value. It required almost three months for the Essanay company to complete this film and the Gossard Shop is to be congratulated in the securing of such a feature and presenting the same gratis to the ladies of Janesville. The nine models that were shown in the picture can be seen at the Little Gossard Shop on North Main street.

MAE MURRAY IN A STIRRING ROMANCE

Beautiful Star Seen With Wallace Reid in Excellent Photoplay.

"To Have and to Hold," Mary Johnston's stirring romance of colonial marriages of finance, held the interest of a large audience at the Apollo last night for five reels, and then one wished it was longer. It was a Lasky photoplay and therefore well put on and filled with atmosphere. There are beautiful scenes, splendid groupings, wonderful close-ups and unique situations—enough to make a picture play of the Lasky quality to which the public is accustomed.

Mae Murray is a fascinating and charming little actress and is featured as the star, but it is Wallace Reid's photoplay. He steps into the lead and one unconsciously follows part of the story. He makes an admirable winning hero.

BIG COMBINED CIRCUS COMING

Coop & Lent's Monster Shows to Appear at Fair Grounds, Janesville, May 6.

It is asserted that Coop & Lent possess some of the very best clowns in the circus field. There is a laugh a second tucked away between exhibits of daring and feats of skill. Thrills and laughter chase each other around the great canvas each vying for supremacy. Sometimes the thrills are on top, then merriment gets the strange hold on sensationalism.

The slap-stick methods of the unfunny clown of yesterday are tabooed. There are no tags, wisps and cutups, "jesters" fools and buffoons. Sunray Jims and Happy Jacks from every point of the compass. Much fun is also introduced into the program by clever burlesque aerial bar, high wire artists and innumerable comedy animal acts.

Coop & Lent will exhibit in Janesville on Saturday, May 6. Two famous European artists with Cooper & Lent's big Combined Shows at Janesville Fair Grounds, May 6th.

The only sensation today was a runaway on South Main street, the horses going southward. We did not follow them up any great distance and therefore do not know where they stopped, how much demoralization was effected, or who is the owner of the team.

Milton News

MILTON IS DEFEATED BY BELLOIT COLLEGE

Milton, May 4.—Milton College received a decisive defeat at the hands of the Beloit college team last Friday on Milton's field by a score of 12 to 4. The visitors were a hard-hitting aggregation and brought in their hits at telling points in the game, although they garnered but one more run than the Milton men. It was the first regular game of Milton's schedule and a lack of experience produced several costly errors, otherwise the Beloit bunch did not outplay them much. In the first inning the visitors made two runs while Milton made one. In the second, Beloit got next to Lust and pounded in four tallies. In the fifth Milton took a spurt and made three counters before they were stopped. Randolph, who took Lust's place in the Milton box, got wild in the eighth and three more Beloit men got across.

Burdick, catching for Milton, allowed no stolen bases. Phillips, Beloit pitcher, whaled out a fine three-bagger. Ormsby of Milton got three hits in five times at bat.

COMMON AMERICAN BIRDS
INTERESTING INFORMATION ABOUT THEM SUPPLIED BY THE BUREAU OF BIOLOGICAL SURVEY OF THE UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

HORNED LARK
(Otocoris alpestris)

Length, about seven and three-fourths inches. The black mark across the breast and the small, pointed tufts of dark feathers above and behind the eyes distinguish the bird.
Range: Breeds throughout the United States (except the South Atlantic and Gulf states) and Canada; winters in all the United States except Florida.
Habits and economic status: Horned larks frequent the open country, especially the plains and deserts. They associate in large flocks, are hardy, apparently delighting in exposed situations in winter, and often nest before snow disappears. The flight is irregular and hesitating, but in the breeding season the males ascend high in air, singing as they go, and pitch to the ground in one thrilling dive. The preference of horned larks is for vegetable food, and about one-sixth of this grain, chiefly waste. Some sprouting grain is pulled, but drilled grain is safe from injury. California horned larks take much more grain than the eastern birds, specializing on oats, but this is accounted for by the fact that oats grow wild over much of the state. Weed seeds are the largest single element of food. The insect food, about 20 per cent of the whole, includes such pests as May beetles and their larvae (white grubs), leaf beetles, clover-leaf and clover-root weevils, the potato-stalk borer, nut-weevils, billbugs, and the chinch bug. Grasshoppers are a favorite food, and outcrops are freely eaten. The horned larks, on the whole, may be considered useful birds.

Whitewater News

Whitewater, May 4.—A very pretty wedding occurred on Monday morning at 10:30 at St. Patrick's church when Miss Katherine Knight, daughter of John Knight, Jr. and Thomas C. Kennedy, were united in marriage by Rev. J. E. Downey. The bride wore a gown of brown Irish poplin combined with georgette crepe and wore a corsage bouquet of lilies of the valley. Her dress was of special significance because of the fact that it had also been her mother's wedding dress. She was attended by her sister, Marie. After a wedding breakfast the young couple went to Chicago where they will make their home. Mrs. Kennedy has been a trained nurse and has spent the past eight years in Chicago. The groom is an attorney and has made many friends during his frequent visits to this city.

ADVANCE IS SOUGHT
IN TELEPHONE RATES

Secretary of Wisconsin State Telephone Association Prepares Petition to Railroad Commission.

Madison, Wis., May 4.—W. J. Gallon, secretary of the Wisconsin State Telephone association, is preparing a petition to the railroad commission which will ask that the commission order a state wide increase in telephone rates at twenty-five cents a month. A resolution to this effect was adopted by the state telephone association in recent convention here. The resolution has already been filed with the railroad commission.

The city of Spooner has come to the commission for advice on its water power situation. It seems that the capacity of the present water power property, owned by the city, has been exhausted. The city wants to develop another water power seven miles distant. It will take $100,000 to do this, which amount, however, is in excess of the debt limit. The attorney general has held that mortgage certificates could not be issued. The railroad commission is still considering the problem.

The Daily Novelette

Better Never Than Late.

All scenes are brief.
Depicting bliss.
She didn't like.

"Good! A Movie Kiss."

After deliberating three days and three nights, the beautiful Maggie Nesia decided to reject the handsome but poor Sidney Weevil and marry the rich but homely Airedale Mangle. "There's only one serious thing against you, Airedale," she told him. "You are not prompt, and you know how I love promptness. If you keep me waiting one minute at the church, I shall refuse to promise to love, honor and put up with you."

"Fear not, Maggie," replied Airedale, and threw himself into her arms.

The wedding evening approached, drew near, arrived.

A handsome figure in evening clothes drew itself hand over hand up the ivy vine that overspread the wall of the Mangle home. When he reached Airedale's window, he paused.

"Good!" he whispered. "I can hear him taking a bath!" And he crept into the room and gathered up every collar button in sight.

Then the stout handsome Sidney Weevil (for it was he) climbed down the vine again, brushed off the leaves and silk worms, and hurried to the church.

The fatal hour arrived, but not so Airedale Mangle. Sidney Weevil gallantly stepped forward and offered his services, which the prompt Miss Nesia promptly accepted, and they were married and lived happily ever after.
